

Be wise, be wise

There is no danger, dear, no none at all and don't believe the slander put about by those intent to do us down, besmirch our name and sabotage, destroy our patriotic quest.

They speak of freedom, hope and liberty, yet offer nothing but disharmony and strife and years of toil and perfect age-long anguish such wasted years to make a parent's soft heart bleed.

So help us, dear (there really is no danger), just tell us who you saw with whom and why and what you heard, was said and what was whispered what treason was proposed to seal this nation's fate.

We understand you have not seen your little ones for several days, but please be reassured that they are safe and hale and you will be reunited if you co-operate and do your duty as citizen.

What was it you saw, you heard, what was it that was said when those evil ones, those with hate in their hearts for our motherland, congregated, planned and made their vows to destroy what for each loyal and honest patriot is true?

Just help us, dear, there is no danger (and that your surely know)
Your little ones are safe, of course — of course, of course they are!
And there is so little chance that harm might come their way none at all, in fact, (though there has been miscommunication).

Just tell us, dear, just what it was you saw, you heard,
or even think you saw and heard, what was it dear?
Be wise, be wise, my dear, for you remind me of my daughter a bright and lively girl who knew her way in life.

Wise she was, wise and helpful, so why not equal her example Tell us, dear, just tell us that you say, you heard or even think you saw and heard, what was it, dear, what were the treacheries they planned to kill their motherland?

Now that is good, my dear, my daughter would be proud, and proud am I that you've proved you're wiser than you thought Your children? Oh, just down the corridor, my dear, as promised.
Sign here, my dear, and life will now carry, on safe and un-reproached.
